

ANASTASIA VAYNBERG

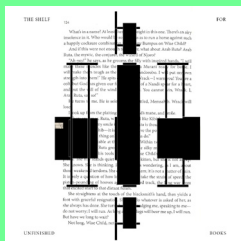

Anastasia Vaynberg, an architect based in Zurich, has been working at Studio Märkli since graduating from ETH in 2018. Alongside architectural practice she explores the quotidian through painting and reflects on everyday objects through design. The craft of each piece stands at the core of her work. It allows her to blur the line between design process, painting and furniture creation.

FOR INFO:

<https://www.fakeauthentic.gallery/>
info@fakeauthentic.it
@ fa_fakeauthentic

TEAM MEMBERS

- Anastasia Vaynberg

The shelf for unfinished books

I start reading too many books at the same time before finishing the ones I was already reading. They tend to gather next to my side of the bed, sometimes forming small stacks, and other times resembling small mountains. I decided to build a shelf for them, so they won't be completely abandoned. It is a low shelf made of spruce wood, with a small painting as part of it. The painting depicts a writer's table, serving as a reminder of books that are also unfinished, but in a different way.

